Parenting by Design offers multi-week parenting classes focusing on the ways children learn most effectively – through age-appropriate experiences, their parents' example, and by learning how to examine themselves for the reasons for their behavior. Parents of children of all ages are encouraged to give their children age-appropriate choices and to walk empathically with them as they experience the consequences of those choices. Many examples of God, as the Perfect Parent, are used to help parents raise children who are likely to become better decisionmakers and problem-solvers and to slowly prepare them for life outside the home.

The aim of the classes is to follow God's design to help children transition from dependence on parents to dependence on God.
